Dear Friends:

Welcome to the 2019 Piccolo Spoleto Festival, which marks the 41st year that Charleston's local arts community has come together in the spirit of collaboration and partnership to create the perfect complement to the global aspirations of Spoleto Festival USA. Each year Piccolo Spoleto presents more than 500 performing, literary, and visual arts events, as boundless creativity and unrivaled virtuosity showcase the Holy City's history, heritage, and hospitality.

The arts resound throughout Charleston year-round, but Piccolo Spoleto's performances and exhibitions afford special license for the arts to be your guide as you discover landmark houses of worship, historic parks, and celebrated public spaces, as well as lesser-known performance venues off the beaten path.

This year, we are delighted to bring Piccolo Spoleto programs to two exciting new venues, the Cannon Street Arts Center downtown and "The Pearl" at the West Ashley Theatre Center, recently unveiled by our friends at Charleston Stage. These Piccolo debuts are a particular point of pride for all of Charleston, as we recognize by way of these facilities that the arts reside everywhere in the city across a range of scales and styles.

Piccolo Spoleto would not be possible without the dedication and generosity of artists and arts enthusiasts throughout our community, and I want to acknowledge all of the outstanding artists and appreciative audience members who will make the 2019 Piccolo Spoleto Festival triumphant. I also want to thank the staff of the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs and the team of dedicated community volunteers and arts leaders who bring Piccolo Spoleto to life. Bravo!

I hope you will join us in celebrating everything that Charleston and Piccolo Spoleto have to offer. I look forward to seeing you at the Festival.

About Michelle Seay, 2019 Piccolo Spoleto Festival Poster Artist

Michelle Seay grew up on Kiawah Island, SC where she developed her connection to the sea and created her earliest memories of drawing. Seay is a 1994 College of Charleston BofA Honors graduate, recipient of the Liberace Foundation Award Scholarship, and completed a post graduate residency at the School of Visual Arts in Manhattan, NY. A certified USCG Captain, Seay spent nearly two decades working offshore in the Atlantic fishing sharks commercially, delivering boats, sailing, owning and operating a charter boat business based in the Charleston Harbor. Seay is an internationally distinguished artist with working private collections throughout the US and Europe. She is passionate about the act of drawing as a daily practice and capturing the world wherever she may be. Local restaurants featuring her work include Ruru's, Harold's Cabin, and Coast. Michelle Seay has been a homeowner in the Wraggborough Garden District on Charlotte Street for over 20 years currently living with her three sons and working in her home studio. ABOUT THE FESTIVAL

The Piccolo Spoleto Festival annually presents a varied program that includes visual arts exhibitions, performances of classical music, jazz, dance, theater, and choral music, as well as cultural events and community celebrations, poetry readings, children's activities, craft shows, and film screenings.

Piccolo Spoleto prioritizes accessibility for both artists and performers, presenting professional work of the highest standard, while ensuring that nearly half of Piccolo's events are admission-free, with the balance offered at affordable ticket prices.

Piccolo Spoleto was launched in 1979 by the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs, which continues to work closely with an engaged group of volunteers from the Charleston arts community. The working group of arts professionals who serve as volunteer program coordinators for the Festival now numbers nearly forty, with each specializing in a particular discipline, genre, or period.

These arts professionals and scholars devote significant time, energy, and expertise to help curate and plan the various series and presentations that comprise the Piccolo Spoleto Festival. Their input and guidance is essential to framing this comprehensive multi-disciplinary arts festival program, which is produced and presented by the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs.

Applications for the 2020 Piccolo Spoleto Festival will be available online in the autumn at piccolospoleto.com. For more information, call the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs at (843) 724-7305 or email CulturalAffairs@charleston-sc.gov.

Carvalho's Journey

A real life 19th century American western adventure story, "Carvalho's Journey" (2015) tells the extraordinary story of the photographer Solomon Nunes Carvalho (1815-1897), an observant Sephardic Jew born in Charleston, South Carolina, who accompanied J. C. Fremont's fifth expedition across the Rockies. Visually ambitious and extensively researched, the film features interviews with scholars and writers, rare archival materials, original landscape cinematography, and re-creations of the daguerreotype process to weave together a compelling narrative of the expansion of the American continent as seen through the eyes of a trailblazing American artist.

ROYAL JOHNSON

From Macon, GA, the home of the legendary Allman Brothers, comes a young band organically achieving a similar blend of blues, Southern rock, and jam music. This band has made a lot of noise in a short period of time and now can almost always be found on the road. Their latest EP, "Jars", charges hard but mellows down easy in all the right places. Very tasty stuff indeed. Piccolo debut!

Mon., May 27

WILLIE JACKSON and the TYBEE ISLAND BLUES BAND

A career railroad man, Willie Jackson, suffered a workplace accident a few years ago that sidelined his train employment forever. Turning lemons into lemonade, he decided to plunge full-time into music and, blessed with a huge voice and commanding stage presence, now takes his band all around the Southeast with their wild and exciting barroom blues. You will love these guys and their music, express from the Coastal Kingdom of our sister state of Georgia. Charleston debut!

Sun., June 2

PETER KARP BAND

Peter Karp is a celebrated songwriter, vocalist, multi-instrumentalist now based in Nashville, who plies his trade on both sides of the Atlantic. With a large catalog of superb recordings, he manages to dodge being pigeonholed into any one genre of music. Blues, rock, Americana, modern country, all of the above? We will leave it for you to decide.

Mon., June 3

DAVIS COEN BAND

An old friend to blues lovers in this part of the South, Davis called Charleston his home for quite some time but now bases in Memphis. His music (and he is a prolific recording artist) can be heard regularly on satellite radio and beyond...a dynamite mix of downhome and uptown. His guitar work is crystalline and his vocals warm and honeyed. Add a great rhythm section and you have a beautiful night on the harbor.

Sun., June 9

KYLE YARDLEY BLUES BAND

Harmonica ace/vocalist Kyle Yardley learned his craft in the rough-and-tumble venues of St. Louis, MO. He calls his style "Juke Joint Boogie" and that only begins to hint at the exciting mix of classic urban blues and Southern country feeling. His hot band can spin on a dime and really roar. You will love the authenticity of this top-shelf act. Charleston debut!

Friendship Community Choir

The Friendship Community choir, based in Athens GA, brings "So Much I Love: Troubadour Songs and Laude Spirituali" to Piccolo. This performance is a musical exploration of secular and sacred love in the medieval period, featuring troubadour songs from 12th-century France and Laude Spirituali (devotional songs praising Mary) from 13th-century Italy. Director Kevin Kelly has arranged these melodies for four-part choir, adding a colorful accompaniment with instruments in keeping with those of the medieval period -- harp, recorder, violin and percussion -- to which he added the more modern saxophone. His intention was not to produce a historic rendition, but to give this music new life in a modern setting. These songs are rarely heard today, yet the beauty of their poetry and melodies deserves a wider hearing.

Imagined and founded by acclaimed guitarist and composer Strehpene Wrembel more than 10 years ago in New York City, Django a Gogo is a world class event that celebrates the music and the spirit of the great French guitar master, Django Reinhardt. Django a Gogo celebrates Django Reinhardt as a composer, as a guitarist, as a Gypsy, as a free thinker and a traveler. Django a Gogo is a space of expression for Django masters, and masters of other styles, a space of the highest musical exchange in the world. Django a Gogo is a high-level artistic reunion between American and European masters of what many people call gypsy jazz.

The Why

A fast-paced tragicomedy; one part modern satire, one part honest investigation, "The Why" follows Robert, an American teenager guilty of killing three of his classmates in a school shooting. Spliced among the dramatic exchanges between Robert and his assigned social worker, a parade of fantastical stereotypes storms in and out, creating a dichotomy between moments of hilarity and sorrow. Written in 2003, "The Why" is alarmingly relevant today, cleverly shining a theatrical light on just how far we have not come in stopping one of the most horrific occurrences in modern America. Stop Kiss

In "Stop Kiss," Sara and Callie are walking through New York City's West Village very late at night, when they share their first kiss. This leads to a vicious attack by an angry bystander, in which Sara is horribly injured. She falls into a coma, which becomes one of the major subjects of the play. George, Callie's good friend, tries to help with the situation, but there is little he can do. Peter, Sara's ex-boyfriend from St. Louis, comes to help nurse her back to health. Throughout "Stop Kiss," relationships are explored, formed, and even ended. Diana Son elaborates on the depths of human emotion and compassion in this play.

Mystery Meat, Jason Groce's Big Whatever, and Meeting Street Maniacs

Mystery Meat is a dynamic duo that delivers a healthy helping of hip-hop sketch comedy. It's a mystery what these two are grilling up, but this part sketch comedy, part rap concert is guaranteed to bring the hype. What happens when a single guy spends most of his days at home with his rescue pit bull as his only audience member? You get the bizarre world of Jason Groce's Big Whatever - a hilarious one-man sketch show that is both absurd and relatable. The Meeting Street Maniacs are a group of seriously funny people from Theatre 99 doing improv comedy. They might get a word from the audience and go. They might interview an audience member and improvise hilarious scenes based on their life. Anything can happen!

SUPPORT THE FESTIVAL

Become a friend of Piccolo Spoleto!

It goes without saying... We already consider you a valued friend of the Festival and a supporter of the arts based simply on your past and continuing attendance of Piccolo Spoleto events and exhibitions. In fact, our audiences do something absolutely essential that the Festival cannot: you sustain the artists and ensembles that participate in Piccolo Spoleto through your ticket purchases, your volunteer service, your gifts, and your support in countless other ways, both during the Festival and throughout the year.

We encourage you to remain a tireless champion of those artists and arts organizations you value most, and we also invite you to consider supporting our collective efforts to promote the arts and culture in the Lowcountry as a Friend of Piccolo with a gift of annual support at the level most comfortable to you.

Your Friends of Piccolo contribution will do much more than just help us bridge the gap between earned revenues associated with ticket sales and the cost of producing an ambitious, multi-disciplinary arts festival. Your support will allow us to renew and expand our ongoing outreach efforts to make the Festival experience accessible to all. This includes bringing artists into schools, libraries, community centers, hospitals, and nursing homes, as well as providing tickets to area groups that serve students, seniors, veterans, and others who might not be able to otherwise attend and participate.

Individual gifts are critical to Piccolo Spoleto's ability to continue to think creatively and to create a Festival that is inclusive, sustainable, and supportive of our diverse community of artists and audiences. Your support as a Friend of Piccolo will equip us with much-needed resources that allow us to more readily say "Yes" to artists and their inspired proposals for creative premieres and innovative collaborations.

In acknowledgment of your gift, we are pleased to offer recognition and premiums at a range of giving levels, from $50 to $5,000. Complete details are available online at our website piccolospoleto.com, or you can call our office at (843) 724-7305. No matter the level of your support, we will work tirelessly to make sure every dollar is utilized to mount a vibrant, artistically-excellent Festival and to keep the arts vital in Charleston year after year.

We hope you will consider joining the Friends of Piccolo. Giving is easy and whatever level of support you select, your gift will be deeply appreciated.

Mon., June 3, 6:30pm

Teddy Norris

Free verse artist and retired English professor Teddy Norris has been published in various journals including Cuivre River Anthology, Little Patuxent Review, Broad River Review, Switchgrass Review, Flying South, Kakalak, and other journals. Now she brings excerpts from her chapbook, Pillars of Salt for the enjoyment of Sundown Poetry audiences.

Tue., June 4, 6:30pm

Judith Pacht

Judith Pacht's new books, Infirmary for a Private Soul and A Cumulus Fiction, came out in March 2019. Her book Summer Hunger won the 2011 PEN Southwest Award for Poetry and her poems appear in Ploughshares, Runes, Nimrod, and elsewhere. She has taught poetry at Denver's LitFest at the Lighthouse and UCLA Extension. She lives in Los Angeles.

Wed., June 5, 6:30pm

Elizabeth Bernardin

Two-time SC Arts Commission fellowship winner (1986 & 2010) Libby Bernardin returns to the Sundown Poetry series with a collection of her poems. The author of Stones Ripe for Sowing (Press 53), The Book of Myth (SC Poetry Initiative, 2009) and Layers of Song (Finishing Line Press, 2011) will share new and selected works.

Thu., June 6, 6:30pm

Timothy Conroy

Tim Conroy will be the first to admit it took his brother's goading to get him to share his poetry. But thanks to acclaimed author Pat Conroy's encouragement, Tim will share his work with Piccolo audiences. Reading from his book Theologies of Terrain, in addition to other selected works, Tim's verses will focus on memories, family, and the human truth "that we are all sometimes rescued by strangers, all sometimes saved by love."

Fri., June 7, 6:30pm

Fred Dings

Fred Dings shares new and selected poems from his three books, After the Solstice (Orchises Press), Eulogy for a Private Man (TriQuarterly Books), and his newly completed The Four Rings. The poet, who read at the first anniversary commemoration of 9/11 in New York City sponsored by the PEW Foundation, presents a 30 minute performance for the Sundown Poetry Series.

Sun., June 9, 2:00pm

Poetry at McLeod: Roger Reeves

Poetry at McLeod proudly hosts major African American poets illuminating the experience and legacy of enslavement. Roger Reeves's poems have appeared in Poetry, Ploughshares, American Poetry Review, Boston Review, Best New Poets and Tin House, among others. He was awarded NEA, Poetry Foundation and Cave Canem fellowships, and scholarships to Bread Loaf and Provincetown Fine Arts Work Center. He earned his PhD the University of Texas-Austin, where he is now an associate professor. His forthcoming On Paradise from W.W. Norton follows King Me.

The festival's longest-running event exclusively devoted to fiction, Piccolo Fiction Spotlight invites three local authors to present brief short stories. This year's reading will be in the courtyard beside the bookstore, and, following recent tradition, each story will begin with the words "I ducked into the alley..."

Since 2000, Piccolo Fiction has featured dozens of SC writers, with stories broadcast by SC Public Radio's "Your Day," and published in the Charleston City Paper.

Featured Piccolo Fiction Authors

Jennifer Hope Choi is the recipient of the Carson McCullers Center's Marguerite and Lamar Smith Fellowship, the BuzzFeed Emerging Writer Fellowship, and a 2019 Pushcart Prize Special Mention. Her writing has appeared in Best American Travel Writing 2018, Virginia Quarterly Review, Guernica, The American Scholar, Bon Appétit, Lucky Peach, BuzzFeed Reader, The Atlantic, and elsewhere. She is the eat & drink editor for Charleston magazine, and is currently working on a memoir.

Tupelo Hassman's debut novel, Girlchild, was the recipient of the American Library Association's Alex Award. Her work has also appeared in The Boston Globe, Harper's Bazaar, The Independent, the Portland Review, Imaginary Oklahoma, and Zyzyva, among others. Tupelo's second novel, gods with a little g, is forthcoming from Farrar, Straus and Giroux.

Jonathan Rabb is the author of the novels Among the Living (Townsend Fiction Prize Finalist), The Second Son, Shadow and Light, Rosa (Winner of the Dashiell Hammett Prize for fiction), The Book of Q and The Overseer. He has published short fiction and non-fiction in a number of magazines and journals, including The Oxford American, The Strand, Opera News and the Journal for Interdisciplinary History. He has taught at NYU, Columbia and currently at SCAD.

Emma Stough will graduate from College of Charleston with an MFA in Creative Writing in May 2019. She is a Midwestern fiction writer who enjoys speculative fiction, photography, and Italian food. She has work forthcoming in Third Coast.

Mary Laura Philpott

Author of I Miss You When I Blink and acclaimed essayist (and bookseller at Ann Patchett's Par-nassus Books) Mary Laura Philpott presents a charmingly relatable and wise memoir-in-essays about what happened after she checked off all the boxes on her successful life's to-do list and realized she might need to reinvent the list—and herself.

Thu., June 6, 5:30pm

Frye Gaillard

Author of A Hard Rain, Frye Gaillard gives a deeply personal history, exploring the competing story arcs of tragedy and hope through the political and social movements of the 1960s—civil rights, black power, women's liberation, the War in Vietnam, and the protests against it. Along the way we meet the Brothers Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr. and Malcolm X, Gloria Steinem, Janis Joplin, Jimi Hendrix, and many other influential voices of the times.

VISUAL ARTS

PICCOLO SPOLETO JURIED ART EXHIBITION

The annual juried art exhibition highlights the recent work of artists across South Carolina featuring painting, sculpture, drawing, printmaking, and photography. Artworks receiving prizes are presented alongside a limited selection of pieces identified by the juror as meriting display. This year's juror is Arianne King Comer, a BFA graduate of Howard University, an art consultant, indigo and community arts advocate, lecturer, teacher, and textile artist. She has been an Artist in Residence in the state of South Carolina since 1995. Please visit piccolospoleto.com for a full roster of exhibiting artists.

Contagion

Becoming part of a visual chain reaction, attendees are invited by artist Karen Jayne to fill in the blank of the statement: ____ is contagious or ____ is not contagious. The result is a collaborative installation where the comments become part of the changing exhibit. The artist, with a BFA in 3-D studio art from Northern Illinois University, hopes to explore how our personal action or inaction may encourage or discourage the spread of identified contagions.

This is MLK Corridor

“Bet On Me, I Bet On You.” Launched by the Charleston Rhizome Collective, conNECKtedTOO is an art and culture in/with community project with economic development, that will memorialize bygone businesses and equally will celebrate existing businesses through a series of indoor and outdoor art events and installations. At sites in and along Charleston’s MLK Corridor on Spring and Cannon Streets, these interventions and art projects will place focus on TINY businesses and the communities they serve. The Cannon Street Arts Center provides a point of orientation to experience what conNECKtedTOO is bringing to the MLK Corridor during Piccolo Spoleto, with work placed throughout this culturally significant neighborhood. Full details available at piccolospoleto.com. As part of the Southern Creative Places program, this project is funded in part by a grant from South Arts in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts and the South Carolina Arts Commission.
